Park campers not going anywhere

Homelessness. Festival and barbecue have been displaced by protest at Oppenheimer Park

Campers at the expanding tent city in the Downtown Eastside's Oppenheimer Park have no plans to vacate the premises, despite eviction notices from the city as well as neighbourhood events scheduled at the space this weekend.

The encampment had grown to about 40 tents and a teepee erected in a circle around a campfire as of Thursday morning. It started last week in protest of the city's failure to end homelessness and provide adequate housing for low-income residents.

"They promise this, they promise that, but here we are three years later with nothing," said Synthia Cardinal, who is homeless and camping at the park.

The campers have had positive conversations with the city, but don't intend to leave until there is action, Cardinal said.

"We don't want to be walked over, we want to be heard," she said, adding the tents are on unceded First Nations land.

Campers plan to build a sweat lodge and occupy the public bathrooms so park board staff can't lock the facilities after 4:30 p.m. They have also established a drug- and alcohol-free zone.

Two events traditionally held at the park will be displaced by the protest this weekend.

The 38th annual Powell Street Festival, which celebrates Japanese-Canadian culture, will relocate some of its programming to the street so as not to disrupt the encampment.

The park was home to the Asahi baseball team before the government confiscated Japanese-Canadians' property, relocated them and interned them during the Second World War.

The Union Gospel Mission also moved Saturday's 16th annual summer barbecue to Crab Park. The event will serve 5,000 meals.

Mayor Gregor Robertson, who was elected on a Vision Vancouver campaign to end street homelessness by 2015, said the city doesn't plan to evict the campers before the weekend.

"The city is taking a calm approach and focused on life safety and getting people access to housing," Robertson said Thursday, adding people have a right to protest.

"We are pushing hard on our provincial and federal partners to increase their support so we can achieve our goal to get everyone off the street."

NPA mayoral candidate Kirk LaPointe acknowledged the campers' frustrations with the city, but he added that the park is for the use of all Vancouverites.

"The protest underscores Vision Vancouver's failed promises on homelessness and its pattern of setting expectations it can't meet," he wrote in an email.

‘Trash-busting mecca’ means jobs for Downtown Eastside

High aspirations.
New combined facility aims to be a centre for innovation in recycling

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

A private recycling company has teamed up with United We Can, the bottle depot that employs Downtown Eastside residents, to create a “trash-busting mecca” just outside the downtown core.

The shared facility between Recycling Alternative, which deals with everything from compost to cardboard at big events including the Folk Festival, and United We Can makes it easier to operate for both companies, who share expertise and space at 449 Industrial Ave., Recycling Alternative co-owner Louise Schwarz said on a media tour of the facility Thursday.

Their goal is to be the centre of innovation in recycling and create green jobs for people who have barriers to employment from the Downtown Eastside, Schwarz said at the 30,000-square-foot facility owned by the city.

Recycling Alternative pays market rents for the new facility, while the city is leasing to United We Can at a subsidized rate.

The new space is a relief for those working at United We Can’s old location in the heart of the Downtown Eastside.

The old space was too small, forcing binners to line up outside to deposit their bottles. The more than 500 binners who use United We Can recycle about 60,000 beverage containers each day.

On the cramped inside, sorters had to deal with mould and pests.

Crowds expected at aquarium meeting

Visitors watch the belugas at the aquarium. THANDI FLETCHER/METRO FILE

More than 85 people have signed up to speak Saturday at what is expected to be a heated special park board meeting on the Vancouver Aquarium’s controversial captive whale and dolphin program.

Park Board commissioners Constance Barnes and Sarah Blyth, who have both come out strongly in favour of a ban on cetacean captivity, said they were not surprised to see such strong interest from people looking to voice their opinions on the aquarium’s program at Saturday’s meeting.

“People are very passionate about the issue,” said Blyth, adding that she has received emails from over 6,000 people around the world about the aquarium’s program in recent weeks. “It’s a worldwide movement to have this conversation.”

The Vancouver Aquarium program has come under fire in recent months for its practice of keeping belugas and dolphins in captivity.

World-renowned conservationist Jane Goodall challenged the aquarium’s captive cetacean program. In a May letter to the Vancouver Park Board, she wrote that breeding cetaceans on-site, and at SeaWorld with belugas on loan, is “no longer defensible by science.”

While Barnes expects Saturday’s meeting to be “emotional,” she said she hopes speakers will also be respectful.

“We’re not there to yell and scream and fight at each other,” Barnes said, adding that park rangers will be on-site in case the meeting does get out of hand. “I think there’s probably going to be more questions that come out of this than answers.”

Last tour. David Suzuki to go out with a bang

This is David Suzuki's last tour.

No, really.

The famous environmentalist announced the Blue Dot Tour on Thursday, a cross-country concert series and community event featuring the likes of Neil Young, Margaret Atwood, Robert Bateman, Barenaked Ladies and Feist. The tour, which starts Sept. 24, will visit 19 other communities before ending at the Orpheum Theatre in Vancouver on Nov. 9.

"This is the most important thing I've ever done," said Suzuki in a media release. "I am so honoured that these incredible Canadians are joining me to celebrate the simple yet powerful idea that all Canadians should have the right to drink clean water, breathe fresh air and eat healthy food."

Suzuki, 78, has said the Blue Dot Tour will likely be his final national speaking tour.

"He's optimistic and energized by a new generation of leaders coming through," said David Suzuki Foundation spokesperson Michiah Prull. "If it's successful, it is the last tour he will have to do."

Final lineups for each city will be announced as the tour nears. Ticket prices range from $39 for students to an all-access $500 VIP pass.

Holy rabies, Batman!

Treatment for scratches and bites. Vancouver Coastal Health sounds the bat alarm

MATT KIELTYKA
matt.kieltyka@metronews.ca

Vancouver residents should avoid direct contact with bats, Vancouver Coastal Health is warning.

Medical health officer Dr. Reka Gustafson says now that the summer is upon us, the number of opportunities people have for contact with bats has spiked.

One or two people treated each week for bat-related scratches and bites, whether that comes from trying to shoo a bat out of their home or trying to nurse an injured animal back to health.

"We do have bats in the City of Vancouver, absolutely," Gustafson said. "All you have to do is go to Jericho beach at night and you will see them."

Vancouver Coastal Health is warning people to avoid contact with bats. IAN WALDIE/GETTY IMAGES

The problem is bats are the only species in the area that is known to carry the rabies virus, so the risk of infection through contact is possible.

About four to eight per cent of bats sent for testing within the last five years in B.C. are found to carry rabies.

If a bat is infected with rabies, it can transmit the disease to humans when its saliva comes into contact with a person's mucous membranes (eyes, nose, mouth) or through a break in the skin, according to a statement from Coastal Health.

Time is of the essence, VCH says.

Once symptoms develop, immunization is ineffective.

"It's a significant medical exposure; it is fatal," said Gustafson. "It is 100 per cent preventable, but it's essential you get rapid treatment after contact."

The most recent human case of rabies linked to a bat was in 2003.

In addition to avoiding contact, VCH recommends pets be regularly vaccinated against rabies and for bite victims to flush the wound with lots of water.

False killer whale edges closer to recovery

Major hurdle passed. Critically wounded calf now bottle-feeding

A critically ill false killer whale calf, rescued off a beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island, has overcome one of its most life-threatening challenges.

Staff at the Vancouver Aquarium say the little creature is now nursing from a bottle as it receives around-the-clock care at the aquarium's Marine Mammal Rescue Centre on Vancouver's waterfront.

The bottle was designed by University of British Columbia PhD student Amelia MacRae, who did research for her master's degree with the aquarium, studying diet and feeding levels of marine mammals.

Clint Wright, the aquarium's senior vice-president, used his experience with cetaceans to coax the male calf to nurse.

The whale was estimated at barely six weeks old when it was found near Tofino on July 10. The animal was near death, with respiratory problems, lacerations and other wounds from being tossed onto the sand and lying on the beach for several hours.

The calf still requires some feeding by tube.

Veterinarians say the calf is slowly building its strength, buoyancy and co-ordination but remains in a flotation sling in a shallow pool, with staff constantly walking it in circles through the water.

Hepatitis C virus. Study finds inordinate number of street youth infected

A new study has found that Vancouver's street youth are particularly vulnerable to infection by the hepatitis C virus (HCV).

The latest report from the B.C. Centre for Excellence in HIV/AIDS, published Thursday in the British Medical Journal, says the prevalence of HCV among the group is alarmingly high.

Of the 940 youth recruited into the At-Risk Youth Study and tracked from September 2005 to November 2011, a hundred were found at be HCV positive at the outset.

"Already as a baseline, one in 10 is a really high rate," said Scott Hadland, lead author of the report and researcher at the centre's Urban Health Research Initiative.

The youth, ages 14 to 26, were tested for the virus every six months. Another 56 people were found to be infected over the course of the study.

Spread

HCV is a leading cause of illness and death worldwide.

- Deaths from the virus have recently surpassed the rate of HIV-related deaths in the United States, said researcher Scott Hadland.
- While HIV rates among street youth in Vancouver have dropped, HCV rates continue to increase.

Transmission of the virus is linked to injection drug use, Hadland said.

The researcher says the numbers show how difficult it is to provide treatment to street youth and the need for harm-reduction services and testing. MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

No charges in fatal Langley Bypass crash

Mounties are not recommending charges against a driver involved in a fatal collision last August near the Langley Bypass.

Sgt. Dale Carr of Surrey RCMP said police found no criminality after an eight-month investigation.

A 37-year-old man died when he was struck by an eastbound semi-truck shortly after 3 a.m. on Aug. 7.

Police said the victim was in the curb lane, not a crosswalk, when he was struck. The truck driver did not stop, and the pedestrian died at the scene.

Tips lead to police search of East Van marijuana shop

Police are investigating an East Vancouver marijuana shop after reports surfaced that drugs bought in the store were allegedly sold to neighbourhood youth.

Officers executed a search warrant at Weeds at 882 East Hastings St. on Thursday, according to a statement from Sgt. Randy Fincham.

No arrests were made, but five customers and three staff were identified and released.

The investigation into the Strathcona shop is ongoing.

Air Algerie flight crashes in Mali

Flight 5017. Five Canadians on airplane that vanishes amid 'difficult weather conditions'

The wreckage of an Air Algerie plane that went missing Thursday has been found about 50 kilometres from the border of Burkina Faso in Mali, a presidential aide said.

The Air Algerie jetliner was carrying 116 people, including five Canadians.

"We sent men with the agreement of the Mali government to the site and they found the wreckage of the plane with the help of the inhabitants of the area," said Gen. Gilbert Diendere, a close aide to Burkina Faso President Blaise Compaore and head of the crisis committee set up to investigate the flight.

"They found human remains and the wreckage of the plane totally burnt and scattered," he said.

He said that they went to the area after hearing from a resident who described seeing a plane go down.

Flight 5017 vanished Thursday in a rainstorm over restive northern Mali, and French officials had said it had probably crashed — the third major international aviation disaster in a week.

Before vanishing, the pilots sent a final message to ask Niger air control to change its route because of heavy rain, Burkina Faso Transport Minister Jean Bertin Ouedraogo said.

Conflict in Gaza. At least 15 killed as UN school hit by Israeli tank shells

Israeli tank shells hit a compound housing a UN school in the Gaza Strip on Thursday, killing at least 15 people and wounding dozens who were seeking shelter from fierce clashes on the streets outside, Palestinian officials said, as Israel pressed forward with its 17-day war against Hamas.

The UN said the strike occurred as staff members were trying to arrange a humanitarian pause in the hostilities so they could evacuate the civilians from the compound in the northern town of Beit Hanoun. The Israeli military said it was reviewing the incident and suggested Hamas rockets may have been to blame, although it offered no proof. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UN response

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon demanded Israel and Hamas abide by international law, respect "the sanctity of civilian life, the inviolability of UN premises" and protect humanitarian workers.

‘Preventing poverty’ unacceptable goal for charity: Feds

Canada Revenue Agency. Forced Oxfam Canada to change its mission statement

The Canada Revenue Agency has told a well-known charity that it can no longer try to prevent poverty around the world, it can only alleviate poverty — because preventing poverty might benefit people who are not already poor.

The bizarre bureaucratic brawl over a mission statement is yet more evidence of deteriorating relations between the Harper government and some parts of Canada’s charitable sector.

The lexical scuffle began when Oxfam Canada filed papers with Industry Canada to renew its non-profit status, as required by Oct. 17 this year under a law passed in 2011.

Ottawa-based Oxfam initially submitted wording that its purpose as a charity is “to prevent and relieve poverty, vulnerability and suffering by improving the conditions of individuals whose lives, livelihood, security or well-being are at risk.”

The international development group, founded in 1963, spends about $32 million each year on humanitarian relief and aid in Africa, Asia, and Central and South America, with a special emphasis on women’s rights.

But the submission to Industry Canada also needed the approval of the charities directorate of the Canada Revenue Agency, and that’s where the trouble began.

Agency officials informed Oxfam that “preventing poverty” was not an acceptable goal.

“Relieving poverty is charitable, but preventing it is not,” the group was warned. “Preventing poverty could mean providing for a class of beneficiaries that are not poor.”

Oxfam Canada’s executive director called the exchange an “absurd conversation.”

“Their interpretation was that preventing poverty may or may not involve poor people,” Robert Fox said in an interview with The Canadian Press.

The Canada Revenue Agency prevailed, and the official declaration to Industry Canada about the purposes of the non-profit corporation dropped any reference to preventing poverty.

“Our mission statement still indicates we’re committed to ending poverty, but our charitable (purposes) do not use the word ‘end’ or ‘prevent’ — they use the word ‘alleviate.’”

Maximum sentence

10 years for man planning to join terror group

The first Canadian convicted under a law criminalizing attempts to join a terrorist group was handed the maximum sentence of 10 years in prison on Thursday, in a case his lawyer had argued was one of entrapment.

An Ontario Superior Court jury had convicted Mohamed Hassan Hersi in May on charges of attempting to participate in the activities of a terrorist group and providing counsel to a person to participate in terrorist activity.

In court in Brampton, Ont., Justice Deena Baltman sentenced Hersi, 28, of Toronto, a one-time security guard, to maximum and consecutive five-year terms for each count, saying he was about to become a “terror tourist.”

Hersi had argued he was the victim of abuse of process, including entrapment, but Baltman dismissed the objection last month and confirmed the conviction.

Sick of sickly-sweet vodka products yet?

Good news!
Distilleries have gone sour on over-the-top sweet flavours and are going back to basics

We've had cream-flavoured vodka, candy-flavoured vodka, even breakfast cereal-flavoured vodka. Now, producers are betting on something different, vodka that tastes like ... vodka.

From an Icelandic vodka made from glacier spring water to a Colorado potato vodka made from freshly picked home-grown spuds, the latest vogue in vodka is more craft than kitsch.

"Vodka distilleries are saying, 'Listen, let's get back to our basics. Let's make these products and represent ourselves in a way that holds true to mixing a very clean cocktail,'" says Jeff Leanheart, beverage director of The Smith Lincoln Center in New York City.

Flavoured vodkas have been huge in recent years — bubble-gum flavoured martini, anyone? — and Leanheart doesn't expect them to disappear. "There's obviously a niche to any item." But there's a serious spirit emerging in new premium vodkas that mirrors the food world emphasis on fresh, local and seasonal products.

Take Reyka, a new vodka from Iceland that in addition to being made with glacier water, is filtered over Icelandic lava rocks.

The result is a spirit with "a beautiful mouth feel that shows beautifully in simple drinks. It can be drunk almost naked, if you will," says Charlotte Voisey, well-known mixologist and global ambassador for William Grant & Sons, the distillery that makes Reyka.

Sorry, but money still doesn't grow on trees

Londoners walking through Potters Field Park were surprised to see a "money tree" blooming with £9,820 ($17,919.15) in £10 notes, the average amount a working British family has in savings, on Thursday in London, England. The tree was planted by Sunlife to encourage the nation to start saving at least £10 a month for a brighter future.

1 Star Trek dad. A Vancouver dad is selling his custom 1978 GMC van — a shrine to Star Trek — on eBay. It's airbrushed with stunning imagery from ST, and the interior has diamond-quilted red velvet. Seems the dad has to "shrink the family vehicle stable" due to "two small boys and no time." Some single dude is bound to scoop it up for his Trekkies, er, treks, across Canada.

2 Spontaneous combustion, eh? An Edmonton man staying at a relative's house suffered second-degree burns to his body after waking up on fire Saturday morning. The man and family witnesses suggest it was a case of spontaneous combustion. The police are investigating, but one thing's for sure: This gives new meaning to the expression, "He's on fire!"

3 Ikea adopt-a-dog. As part of a charitable initiative, select Ikeas are placing life-size cardboard cutouts of dogs in some of their display rooms. This allows consumers to envision what a room could look like with a dog in it, and encourage them to consider adopting a homeless pet. Just don't leave Ikea meatballs on the coffee table or Rover will eat 'em!

4 Star Wars Minecraft. Grahame Skeavington is recreating Star Wars, shot for shot, within Minecraft — and he says the final version will be ready (for free) in 2015. He released a teaser trailer this week to YouTube that went viral. Skeavington has been working on this project for three years. He has given new meaning to "project." My projects last mere minutes.

5 Design a doughnut. Tim Hortons has launched Duelling Donuts, a contest in which you pick the base, filling, sprinkles and toppings of your dream doughnut, and then submit it with a clever name and selling points. The winner gets $10,000. I submitted mine and I won't give it away until it hopefully advances to the next round. Enter yours at timhortons.ca.

6 New iPad, broken iPad. Twitter user Serena tweeted her excitement about getting a new iPad — "FINALLY GOT MY IPAD" — but two hours later, she dropped it down the stairs. And it shattered. And she tweeted out in expletives her profound disappointment. They got picked up and went viral. The lesson here is: Don't Drop Your iPad. But if you do, tweet it and it might go viral.

7 Beetles kill Beatles tree. In a cruel twist of fate, a pine tree planted 10 years ago in honour of Beatles songwriter George Harrison has been killed by beetles. Seems there was an infestation of these insects at a living local monument for him in LA. Now a new tree will be planted.

TURD-WORLD PROBLEMS

A guide speaks about a sewer processing system to young visitors wearing hats made to look like feces at an exhibition at the National Museum of Emerging Science and Innovation in Tokyo on Thursday. The exhibition, aimed at children, focuses on the idea of "what an environmentally friendly toilet is" and the effects human waste has on the environment. SHIZUO KAMBAYASHI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Poopyheads get flushed down Toilet!? and break poo taboo

A new exhibit at a Tokyo museum is all about crap.

The "Toilet!? Human Waste & Earth's Future" display at the National Museum of Emerging Science and Innovation (Miraikan) is all about poop, the bathroom throne and the importance of the potty. Children can put on poo-shaped brown hats and slide down a giant toilet slide. You too can become feces!" a sign for the exhibit boasts.

But the potty-themed exhibit has a serious purpose — it calls attention to the startling fact that 2.5 billion people around the world do not have access to clean and sanitary toilets.

Guests are encouraged to learn about different kinds of human excrement, how toilets function in space and the inner-workings of the sewage system.

"People usually look away when it comes to toilets and feces, but you cannot see problems with this kind of attitude," museum staffer Tami Sakamaki told Agence France-Presse. NYDAILYNEWS.COM

Dirty talk

"The idea is to raise consciousness about these problems. Even if they are dirty things, it is important to talk about them openly."

Tami Sakamaki, museum staffer, on the Toilet!? exhibit, which is on until Oct. 5

Ice melting

ANDREW FIFIELD
andrew.fifield@metronews.ca

The coast of Newfoundland has been, to use local parlance, "maggoty" with icebergs this summer. And until a glacial Batman started making the rounds online this week, this arched ice island was the biggest celebrity of them all.

Well, brace for bad news, berg fans. The arch, while inarguably lovely, wasn't exactly architecturally sound — a startling lesson learned by Rick and his wife from an uncomfortably close distance. (riickstead/YouTube)

Lucy should stick to thrills

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Morgan Freeman and Scarlett Johansson star in Lucy, which opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Don't stop the action!
Pseudoscience, dime-store spirituality and Morgan Freeman lectures bog down a fun summer flick

Richard: Mark, Lucy is a different style of movie, the philosophical action movie. The philosophy is all mumbo-jumbo but that doesn't matter because the film is filled with many enjoyable scenes. Imagine a mix of Limitless, La Femme Nikita and The Matrix run through Luc Besson's absurd style of moviemaking and you get the idea of what this movie is all about.What did you make of it?

Mark: The movie is great when it remembers it's a thriller but when the pseudoscience and dime-store spirituality takes over, it becomes oppressive. I always can depend on Besson for brisk pacing but he slows it all down for a series of lectures — literally, with Morgan Freeman narrating his part as seems to be his custom now.

RC: Freeman is one of two top-billed stars in this movie, but his part could have been played by almost anyone. The movie really belongs to Scarlett Johansson, who starts off as a bubbly party girl and ends the movie as the keeper of the secrets of the universe. It's a bit of a stretch, but if you can wade through the silly scientific theories, there are some great scenes that are more fun than a barrel of neuroscientists. In one fight scene, all the bad guys have knives and guns while Johansson taps into her inner Jedi Knight to defeat them without raising her hand. That sequence alone is worth sitting through the entire 80-minute running time.

MB: I liked lots of scenes in the movie, especially at the beginning when Johansson realizes how much trouble she's in. Afterward she's a bit of an automaton but a very hot one.

Synopsis

Lucy (Scarlett Johansson) begins the story "just like you: vulnerable, uncertain, frightened of death," but when the bag of drugs some very bad people "slipped into her lower tummy" bursts, her life is changed forever. She doesn't overdose. Instead the drug expands her mind to 10 times the usual capacity. She becomes a turbocharged human who can change her appearance and move objects with her mind. She contacts a world-famous neuroscientist (Morgan Freeman) to pass along her newfound knowledge, but not before unleashing the power of her mind on the baddies who got her into this mess.

Mike Cahill has his eyes on the prize

I Origins. Filmmaker set out to make sci-fi movie that thrills — the result was a small budget film that looks like a Hollywood blockbuster

scene@metronews.ca

Filmmaker Mike Cahill doesn't want audiences to know very much about his new movie before checking it out.

"The plot is one thing but the plot is not the whole movie," said the director ahead of the theatrical release of I Origins. "There's the performances, there's the emotion; there are layers that we put into every frame of the film. So I think the less you know, the better it is."

While the film certainly has twists that shall not be spoiled here, the story revolves around a molecular biologist (Michael Pitt) studying the evolution of the eye. After he makes a shocking discovery, it begins to raise conflicting questions involving spirituality and science.

"Science lends itself really well to cinema because science is the landscape of new frontiers," said Cahill. "In this movie, we look at the eye, we look at iris biometrics, we look at new technologies that exist now that did not exist fifty years ago and we tell stories using those new technologies. That's only possible with innovations from science."

Cahill didn't rely too much on scientific technology to make I Origins look like a big-budget blockbuster however. Financed for a modest amount of money, the sci-fi thriller appears as epic as any summer hit out of Hollywood — without being weighted down in special effects.

"The truth is, with big films there is just such waste," said Pitt, best known for HBO's Boardwalk Empire. "Mike knows what it takes to get something made. Some directors just come up with some idea on the spot and pass it off to someone else to figure out how to get it made. (Mike's) films are just much leaner."

"I feel like it's as big as it should be," added Cahill. "I feel like your ideas (can be) timeless. It will not look dated years from now and your scale is as infinite as your context so I never felt restricted by budget."

E-BOOKS CLASS ACTION

To all persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014

Notice of Certification/Authorization and Proposed Canadian Settlement

THE LAWSUITS
Class action lawsuits were commenced in Ontario, British Columbia and Quebec ("Actions") against Apple Inc. ("Apple") and various publishers of E-Books (the "Publishers", particularized below) alleging they conspired to fix, maintain, increase or control the price of E-Books sold by them in Canada, contrary to Part VI of the Competition Act, the common law and the Civil Code of Quebec (the "Alleged Conspiracy"). The Actions allege that, as a result of the Alleged Conspiracy, the price of E-Books sold in Canada from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 was artificially high, and seek, among other things, reimbursement of the alleged overcharges. The defendants deny those allegations, and the claims have not been proven in Court.

THE PUBLISHERS
The Publishers are Hachette Book Group Canada Ltd, Hachette Book Group Inc., HarperCollins Canada Limited, HarperCollins Publishers LLC, Macmillan Publishers, Inc., Penguin Group (USA) LLC (formerly Penguin Group (USA), INC.), Penguin Canada Books, Inc. and Simon & Schuster Canada, a division of CBS Canada Holdings Co.

THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT
A settlement was reached with the Publishers (the "Settlement"). Settlement benefits include payment of $3,175,000 (the "Settlement Proceeds") and cooperation in prosecuting the Actions against Apple. The Settlement must be approved by the Ontario and Quebec Courts ("Courts") to be effective.

CERTIFICATION / AUTHORIZATION
For the purposes of implementing the Settlement, the Actions were certified/authorized as class actions by the Courts in relation only to the Publishers. This means that the determinations made in the Actions will automatically apply to all persons who purchased E-Books in Canada between April 1, 2010 and September 22, 2014, unless they take steps to exclude themselves from the Actions (see below under "Your Options"). Certification / authorization will be set aside if the Settlement is not approved by all the Courts.

SETTLEMENT APPROVAL HEARINGS
The requests to approve the Settlement will take place in hearings on October 6, 2014 at 10:00 a.m. in Windsor, Ontario and October 14, 2014 at 9:30 a.m. in Montréal, Quebec. At the same time, the Class Lawyers may seek approval of their contingency agreements with the representative plaintiffs and of a fee percentage to be deducted from the Settlement Proceeds with other court-approved costs.

THE SETTLEMENT AFFECTS YOUR RIGHTS
If the Settlement is approved, it will affect all persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 except those who opt out of the Actions, the Defendants and certain related parties ("Settlement Class Members"). Under the Settlement, Settlement Class Members RELEASE the Publishers and other related parties from claims regarding the purchase of E-Books in Canada from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014, and commit to discontinue or dismiss other proceedings.

WILL I RECEIVE ANY MONEY AT THIS TIME?
The net Settlement Proceeds (after deduction of legal fees and expenses and any other amounts approved by the Courts) will be held in trust for the benefit of Settlement Class Members. No disbursement of money to Settlement Class Members is contemplated at this time. The manner in which the net Settlement Proceeds will be distributed will be determined by the Courts at a later date, in particular because the case is continuing against Apple and the Courts may be asked to permit their use in the continued prosecution of the Actions. If the Courts approve a distribution of the net Settlement Proceeds, another notice will be provided and posted online at www.Ebooksettlement.ca explaining who is eligible for direct payment and how those persons can apply to receive payment. In the meantime, all purchasers of E-Books in Canada are encouraged to retain proof of purchase of E-Books.

YOUR OPTIONS
If you want to participate in the Actions and benefit from this Settlement and any later settlements or judgments, you do not need to do anything now. All persons in Canada who purchased E-Books from April 1, 2010 to September 22, 2014 are automatically included. You can provide your name and contact information to the Class Lawyers so we can provide further updates on the Actions to you and let you know once the Courts approve a plan to distribute the net Settlement Proceeds.

If you do not want to participate in the Actions, or participate in the Settlement, you must exclude yourself by completing and sending an Opt Out Form to the Class Lawyers by September 22, 2014 (the "Opt Out Deadline"). Opt Out Forms are available at www.Ebooksettlement.ca or from the Class Lawyers. If you opt out, you will keep any right to bring your own lawsuit but will not receive the benefit of this or future settlements or any judgments in the Actions. If you do not opt out of the Actions by the Opt Out Deadline, you will be bound by the Settlement and will not be able to opt out of the Actions in the future.

To comment on or object to the Settlement, you must write to one of the Class Lawyers by September 26, 2014. Comments and objections will be provided to the Courts, but the Courts cannot change the terms of the Settlement.

DO I NEED TO PAY ANYTHING?
You do not need to pay anything out of your pocket. The plaintiffs and petitioners entered into contingency agreements with the Class Lawyers providing for payment of up to 1/3 of amounts recovered in the Actions and reimbursement of disbursements incurred to prosecute the Actions. The Courts will determine the amount to be paid to the Class Lawyers from the Settlement Proceeds.

HOW DO I CONTACT THE CLASS LAWYERS?
To ask questions about the Settlement or Actions, or register as an E-Book purchaser, contact:
• For British Columbia residents: Luciana P. Brasil of Branch MacMaster LLP care of uherlev@branmac.com

Zoe Saldana ALL PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

Is she or isn't she? Saldana keeps baby rumour mill spinning

Apparently those rumours about Guardians of the Galaxy star Zoe Saldana expecting a baby are true, but she won't confirm them just yet. And it looks like some publications have been getting mixed signals about exactly when that will be, as the Hollywood Reporter posted then promptly deleted a story claiming a rep for Saldana had confirmed the pregnancy. But another source tells Us Weekly that Saldana and husband Marco Perego are thrilled about the impending arrival.

Robin Thicke

Family home for sale after Robin's pitch to woo Paula back falls flat

It looks like Robin Thicke's plan to use his latest album, Paula, as a blatant attempt to woo back estranged wife Paula Patton didn't quite work out for the Canadian crooner, as Variety reports that the couple's $3 million Los Angeles home is officially on the market. The 3,100-square-foot, three-bedroom Hollywood Hills mansion was purchased by Robin's dad, Alan Thicke, back in 1990 for $910,000 and signed over to the younger Thicke in 2005 when he married Patton. No word on whether any proceeds from the sale will go back to Alan.

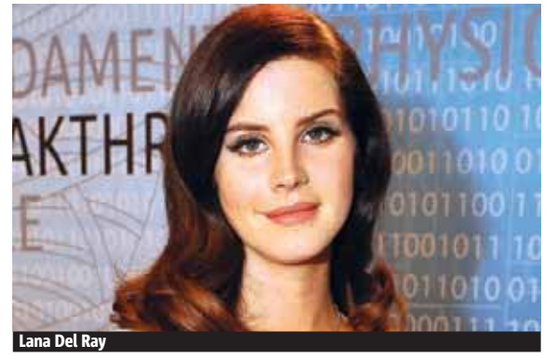
Bieber pops a wheelie puzzling stunt at Disneyland

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Justin Bieber had fans scratching their heads during a recent trip to Disneyland when he was seen being pushed around in a wheelchair — leading some to speculate he was looking to cut lines at the more popular rides. For once, Bieber's people and I are on the same page because that's just plain ridiculous. As they explained to TMZ, he wouldn't need to worry about lines because Disney staff were already on hand to help him cut the lines anyway like any normal famous person. The wheelchair, they say, was because Bieber was nursing a basketball injury, though he was seen the day before and after in L.A. carrying his own weight just fine. But they go too far with their explanation of the lad's odd behaviour by saying he "only sat in the wheelchair for a few moments," since fan photos and videos from throughout the day tell a different story. It's OK, Justin. Sometimes I don't feel like walking when I'm getting a free, all-access, line-hopping tour of the Happiest Place on Earth either. I understand. Walking's hard, man.



Lana Del Ray

Lana's pet peeve? Not being able to sleep her way to a record deal

Lana Del Rey is causing a stir again, claiming her controversial new song F—ed My Way to the Top is at least partially true. "You know, I have slept with a lot of guys in the industry. But none of them helped me get my record deals. Which is annoying," she tells Complex magazine. Also annoying? How much people criticize her, though with this new album she insists she's more prepared than last time. "That gold and platinum stuff, it doesn't mean as much if you're walking down the street and you can hear people saying things about you. That doesn't even out," she says. "The good thing about catching so much grief from critics is that you literally do not f—ing care. It put me in a mind frame where I expect things not to go right, because they generally don't." You … go, girl?

Barbecue classic gets a saucy makeover

Once you marinate the meat, this recipe takes 30 minutes to make.

Flank Steak with Chimichurri Sauce.

Your marinade choice can make all the difference to flavour

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

Basic steaks aren't too exotic, but that doesn't mean they can't impress.

For me, what separates the amateurs from the pros is little extras like a bright sauce or unexpected heat.

With this classic-with-a-twist, you're sure to become the new neighbourhood barbecue master.

Chimichurri

1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients. Keep 1 cup (250 ml) in the refrigerator until serving.

Steaks

1. In a glass dish or sealable plastic bag, cover the flank steaks with the remaining Chimichurri sauce. Cover the dish or seal the bag and refrigerate for 12 to 24 hours.

2. Preheat the grill, setting the burners on high. Oil the grate.

3. Remove the steaks from the marinade and rub with salt and pepper.

4. Grill steaks for about 5 minutes on each side depending on their size or until the desired doneness. Set aside on a plate and let rest for 5 minutes.

5. Slice thinly against the grain of the meat and drizzle with the reserved sauce. Serve with rice and slices of avocado drizzled with lime juice. Season with salt and pepper.

While I'm willing to pour a glass of anything no matter the weather, most red wine doesn't scream "thirst-quenching" at me after an hour of lawn mowing.

Though beer is a back deck staple, there are plenty of wines that can share that space.

My first choice this time of year is rosé. I love its fresh, berry goodness and bright pink colours, along with its ability to match with most food.

If you think rosé is a summertime cliché (and it isn't), look to countries where hot temperatures are more than seasonal — they're a way of life.

Portugal is a great example. It may be famous for its thick fortified wines, but come the warmer months everyone reaches for a glass of white Vinho Verde — a zippy wine with a touch of effervescence.

Styles vary and a wide variety is carried across Canada. Quinta da Aveleda's 2012 Vinho Verde ($9.95 - $12.99) combines citrus, lime and soft, tropical fruit with a light fizz. Perfect as an aperitif or with salads and light seafood dishes.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Spicy Triple Burgers heat it up

1. Seasoning: In a bowl, combine all seasoning ingredients. Set aside.

2. Spicy Mayo: In a bowl, combine all mayo ingredients. Refrigerate.

3. Preheat grill, setting burners to high. Oil grate. Shape beef into 12 very thin patties.

4. Grill bacon until crisp. Grill burgers about 3 minutes per side or until meat is thoroughly cooked. Sprinkle with seasoning. One minute before the end of cooking, place cheese slices on four patties. Toast buns.

Ingredients

Seasoning
1 tbsp (15 ml) salt
2 tsp (10 ml) paprika
1 tsp (5 ml) dry mustard
1 tsp (5 ml) ground pepper
1 tsp (5 ml) onion powder
1/2 tsp (2 1/2 ml) garlic powder

Jay DeMerit retiring without any regrets

MLS. Whitecaps' captain and centre back was out with a torn tendon in left ankle

Whitecaps' captain Jay DeMerit announces his retirement on Thursday. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO

Facing the uncertainty accompanied with another comeback from another serious injury, Jay DeMerit recently had an epiphany: His soccer career may be at an end.

On Thursday, the Vancouver Whitecaps' captain and veteran centre back announced his retirement, in the middle of the season, after suffering a torn tendon in his left ankle last month.

It's the third serious injury in the last two years.

He suffered a concussion in the summer of 2012, and ruptured his Achilles tendon in March of 2013, which required surgery, causing him to miss six months.

There was no return this time.

"Being injured is never easy," said DeMerit, 34, during a press conference.

"The hardest thing for me about being injured is I can't go out there and do my job."

During his opening statement, DeMerit talked about how he came to such a decision.

The day, some time last week, started like most others — he arrived at the training facility out at UBC and began working on the field with physiotherapist Graeme Poole, watching his teammates go through training.

He made up his mind later that day, sitting on a beach at Spanish Banks.

"I'm watching these guys play and it just kind of donned on me that, you know what, I think these days might be over," said DeMerit, who signed a contract extension with the Whitecaps this past off-season.

"It's not something that I'm going to regret."

DeMerit was the club's first-ever signing and captain in its MLS era.

His place in the history of the Whitecaps is significant — just part of a "a blank canvass" when the club transitioned to MLS.

He played 71 regular-season games during his time here.

DeMerit's retirement means the Whitecaps are down to four centre backs, with Andy O'Brien, 35, as the most experienced.

Carlyle Mitchell and Johnny Leveron remain as the feature pairing on the central part of the back line.

Head coach Carl Robinson hasn't ruled the possibility of acquiring another central defender via the secondary transfer window, which ends Aug. 6.

Harris relishes homecoming challenge

After stellar performances in the past two weeks, B.C. Lions running back Andrew Harris now has the difficult task of producing an encore.

But Harris, a 27-year-old Winnipeg native who was named the CFL's top Canadian the past two weeks, will have no shortage of incentives Friday as the Lions (2-2) host the Blue Bombers (3-1) at BC Place Stadium.

"Playing the Bombers, (my) hometown team, is definitely one (game) that I circle on my calendar, for sure," said Harris. "I know all my friends and family are definitely excited to watch me play the Bombers back home. But at the end of the day, though, it's just another team, another challenge. I'm just looking forward to it that way."

Following a slow start to the season, the Lions are looking to extend their win streak to three games, while the Blue Bombers attempt to overcome their first loss of the campaign. Harris will attempt to excel again after accumulating 150 rushing and receiving yards combined in a 41-5 drubbing of the Montreal Alouettes.

His performance the week prior to that against Saskatchewan also earned him CFL offensive player of the week honours.

Cochrane starts Canada's gold-medal count

Swimmer Ryan Cochrane has Canada's first gold medal of the Commonwealth Games.

The Victoria native won the 400-metre freestyle event in three minutes 43.46 seconds, 0.63 seconds ahead of Australia's David McKeon. He broke his own Canadian record that he set at the 2008 Beijing Olympics.

England's James Guy was third in 3:44.58.

Cochrane won gold in the same event four years ago at the Commonwealth Games in New Delhi to go with another gold in the 1,500 metres.

The 25-year-old won bronze in the 1,500-metre freestyle in Beijing and improved on that performance four years later with a silver in the same event at the London Games.

Canucks sign recent first-round pick

The Vancouver Canucks have signed 2014 first-round draft pick Jared McCann to an entry-level contract, the local NHL club announced Thursday.

The Canucks selected McCann with the 24th overall pick in last month's NHL Draft.

The 18-year-old centre scored 27 goals and 62 points this past season with the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Ontario Hockey League. He was one of two first-round picks for the Canucks this year. The Canucks selected Abbotsford's Jake Virtanen at sixth overall. CAM TUCKER/METRO

Stro sniffs no-no vs. Sox

Blue Jays starter Marcus Stroman says a prayer before pitching against the Red Sox on Thursday in Toronto. The prized 23-year-old rookie took a no-hitter into the seventh inning, only to have it snapped by Shane Victorino's bloop single into centre field. Stroman completed seven shutout innings and the Jays won 8-0. Scan the image with your Metro News app for a look at the Jays' history of no-hit close calls. TOM SZCZERBOWSKI/GETTY IMAGES
